

Four questions to ask a tutor before you pay anything.

What will you do in the first session?

If the answer is 'start the syllabus', walk away. The first session should be diagnosis. Nobody can teach a gap they have not located.

How will I know it is working?

A good tutor names a measure before they start. 'Confidence' is not a measure. 'She will close negative numbers in three weeks' is.

What happens when she gets stuck?

Listen for whether they explain again louder, or go backwards to find the missing step. Only one of those is teaching.

Who else have you taught at this level?

IGCSE and A Level Mathematics are specific. General maths tutoring is not the same job, and the difference shows by week three.

Ask these before the first invoice.
